GERMAN SEAMEN REFUSED TO FIGHT

Would Not Go Out in Suicidal Sorties Against the Grand Fleet of the Allies and That Refusal Led

Amsterdam, Dec. 20 .- The attempt of officers of the German high seas fleet to make a suicidal sortie against the British grand fleet before the armistice was signed is characterized by the Berlin Vorwaerts as "the last devilish crime against the German people that sealed the doom of the Pan-Germans." Refusal of the sailors to go out and fight is regarded as the first step toward the German revolution. This mutiny is de-scribed by the Vorwaerts as "an act of self-defense by 80,000 men against the villainous Pan-German plan.

"To understand the position," continues the newspaper, "it is necessary to go back to the feverish proaganda by the Pan-German at the end of October for a so-called national fight of de-To save their necks they conceived the idea of baiting the people into a forlorn hope which could only end in complete extermination. The death of the doomed eight thousand did not concern these maniacs in whose reckoning human blood never counted. Their notion of military honor was that the whole people should suffer themselves to be butchered rather than undergo the shame of defeat."

"With their minds steeped in the worship of might they had no inkling of the revolutionary currents among the men. They still imagined that iron discipline was paramount. Their fiendish plan was to send out the ships to be sacrificed to the last ship. The news spread like wild-

'At the last stage of the war are w all to be killed?' they asked. "The officers harangued, cajoled, in vain. Three times the order was given. It was a difficult position for men with no backing but their feeling of solidarity. A thousand were imprisoned at Wilhelmshaven. The choice between freedom and imprisonment was not difficult. It was revolution. It was the irony of fate that the Pan-Germans, with what was to be their last desperate blow, should themselves have started the conflagration. It was this last, devilish crime against the German people that sealed

CASUALTY MISTAKES WERE CRITICIZED

Representative Crago of Louisiana Told of One Soldier Who Read of Condolence Over His Decease.

Washington, Dec. 20.-Inaccuracies in casualty lists were criticized in the House yesterday by Representative Crago of Louisiana, a Republican member of the military committee, who said that a sol-dier who had been reported officially as killed, is now a patient at Walter Reed hospital in this city.

Mr. Crago exhibited an engraved card the soldier had read the card recently.

MANY FOREIGN GUESTS.

At Reception Given By the New President of China.

Peking, Dec. 20 (correspondence of the Associated Press).-More than a hundred foreign men and women attended a reception given by President Hsu Shihchange and Mme. Hsu in the historic imperial palace recently. The diplomatic establishments, the press and the business world were represented in the list of some five hundred invited guests.

As this was the first social function on a large scale in which the new executive had participated since his inauguration, the event was of unusual interest, apparently to the Chinese guests as well as to foreigners. Utmost simplicity characterized the affair. The big audience chamber, doubtless the scene of epoch-making events in the past, was decorated with chrysanthemums and asters. A military hand heralded the entrance of the president, who took a post before a gigantie floral pyramid in the center of the hall.

The president is a medium -sized man, stockily built, with a pleasing countenance and a reassuring smile. He was Peter Lashway of Swanton, who was attired in frock suit and looked the upwounded, was a member of Company M to-date eastern dignitary. He negotiaand a son of Mrs. Florence Brockway of ted the ordeal of handshaking with all the case and dignity of a western pub-lic official. Since he speaks neither French nor English, Dr. Charles D. Tenney, Chinese secretary of the American legation, acted as introducer for a time, presenting several members of the diplomatie corps, but presently even that formality was abandoned.

This ceremony finished, the president olding a reception in an inner apartment for the women guests. A tea in studied foreign syle was served, after which guests were invited to view a collection of portraits of emperors and empresses dating back to the founda-

Christmas Gifts and Good Will

I You know, the value of the gift isn't what it costs, but in the good will it represents.

I Just now, when the world needs it more than anything else it is a good idea to put extra emphasis on the word "Good Will."

Tor reasons of economy, all gifts this year should be useful gifts; find out what your friends and loved ones really need; something he or she will have to buy anyway, sooner or later; give something like that.

There are plenty of such gifts; you'll find lots of them here in our store gifts suitable for men. Buy Christmas things early; it's a government request.

Tokio, Dec. 20 .- Addressing the prejiro Tokonami, the home minister in the ty party in Germany, has announced new Hara party cabinet, indicated the that the German people's party, in which other day that the government would he has been active since the revolution, bring about a revision of the suffrage is absolutely opposed to a social democsystem so as to promote constitutional racy and will fight the socialist rule, government in Japan. The present suffrage in Japan is extremely limited. Lo- here. The centre party has been sumcal self-government, he said, also would moned to a conference which will be held be extended.

The minister paid a tribute to the paoined Mme. Hsue, who meanwhile was triotism and devotion of the allies in the present war. He said: "It is a remarkable fact that every nation has, on account of the war, enormously strengthened its national ideas. The unity and solidarity so well achieved by the allies have been accomplished by the virtue of individual initiative on the part of the people. The urgent need for us is that the admirable qualities inherent to our national character be fully developed through the awakening of each individual, thus will the noblest traits of our national life be perfectly realized.

WILL OPPOSE SOCIALISTS.

Social Democracy.

Copenhagen, Dec. 20.-Dr. Gustav feetual governors of the empire, Take- Stresemann, leader of the national liberaccording to Berlin newspapers received at Frankfort on Dec. 30.

Poland and Finland on Their Feet, History was made yesterday by Finand and Poland-by Finland her farewell to the last German soldier and the establishment of General Mannenhelm as regent on a basis of law and order home and of peace and friendsh with the neighbor countries and with western Europe, and by Poland through the severance of diplomatic relations with Germany and the expulsion of the German mission from the territory of the Polish republic. Both of these proceedings are in direct harmony with establishment of Finland and Poland on an independent basis, and also on a basis of representative institutions at home and the overthrow of bolshevism and red rule. For the first time, by these steps, Finland and Poland take their stand as true and self-sustaining members of the family of nations.

It is probable that both these governments will be recognized by the allies, and that the extension of allied assistance to Russia will relieve them of the most serious danger that now menaces them, which is bolshevism and industrial anarchy. Both Pinns and Poles are peace loving and industrious people, and both are blessed with leaders who are capable of wise government. Where the two nations have placed themselves to day they are likely to stand in the future, redeeming an important section of eastern Europe from turmoil and uncertainty.-Boston Transcript.
